PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

IFMA Atlanta Chapter Sustaining Patrons - What a great TEAM!!

The IFMA Atlanta Chapter Sustaining Patrons program is one of the best of all the IFMA Chapters. With our Sustaining Patrons' yearly contributions, the Atlanta Chapter can bring top programs and education to our membership. This contribution supplements our operating expenses throughout the calendar year. We are currently renewing and recruiting Sustaining Patrons for next calendar year.

The International Awards of Excellence that the Atlanta Chapter has received for member services, programs, educational courses, outings, networking opportunities, published communications, community services outreach and support of the Georgia Tech FM Masters program is a direct result of the contributions from our incredible Patrons.

On the other side, our Sustaining Patrons receive a visible platform for their companies. Their names are listed on a Patrons display board at each luncheon program, they are asked to stand and be recognized before each program begins, their companies are displayed as linked icons on the Atlanta Chapter of IFMA website at www.ifmaatlanta.org, a company information sheet is available to all members at each luncheon program, and they are given advertising exposure in the membership directory.

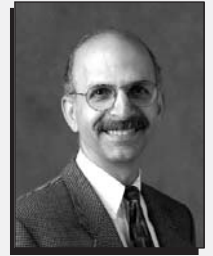

One more very important item for the Sustaining Patrons is that they are given a forum to express their opinions with the President of the Atlanta Chapter. This has been one of the most effective ways to understand their needs and expectations relative to the operation and direction of the Atlanta Chapter of IFMA and its relationship with its Patrons and membership.

Our Sustaining Patrons Committee, chaired by Harry Ludwig, has continued to foster a close relationship with our Patrons from the beginning of their commitment throughout the calendar year. We congratulate their success and look forward to another banner year of Patron involvement with the Atlanta Chapter. Without this partnership, we would not be able to provide you with professional development opportunities and business growth potential.

You will consistently see my reference to the TEAM concept for this year, so get involved with the Atlanta Chapter because Together Everyone Achieves More. In this Educational Partnership, we will all achieve more with your help.

All of our committees are doing a great job, and with your assistance that can only get better. Remember....As a TEAM you can do more with less individual effort...more or less!!

BRANAN TOWERS UPDATE

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED OCTOBER 23rd

Beauty Salon retrofit planning is underway. We hope to have the salon equipment and begin demo and construction within the next thirty days. In the meantime, unexpected funding gifts have become available to create a garden on the side lawn for Branan Towers residents. Home Depot has donated a large gift card to provide for plants and plant materials and Siemens Corporation of Alpharetta has matched the Home Depot funding. Scapes will be providing a landscape plan and plant selection and placement advice. On October 30th, Branan Towers will man a Volunteer Work Day headed by employees from Siemens Corporation. We would like to invite any IFMA members who may have been unable to come to the 9/11 Volunteer Day at either the YWCA or North Fulton County Child Development Center to work alongside the Siemens employees in making a lovely new garden space for the Branan Towers residents.

Thank you!!

Joanne Cole

MONTHLY LUNCHEON PHOTOS AND PROGRAM SUMMARY

If you were able to make it to our September Luncheon, you know what a success it was. Brian Leary presented us with his ongoing vision for the project, to be complete in 2006.

Brian is the Vice President of Design and Development for Atlantic Station, LLC - the joint venture partnership redeveloping the Atlantic Steel Property.

Brian graduated from GA Tech's College of Architecture with a BS in Architecture and a Masters in City Planning. Before graduating, he finished his thesis outlining a plan to redevelop the property through the creation of a 24-hr, live-work-play community.

Much of this information can be found on The Atlantic Station website, but of special interest were Brian's personal anecdotes on; negotiations with the DOT, EPA, and many other government institutions, as well as, the development and design of the Spring Street bridge, and the positive impact of the development on neighboring property values.

We plan to follow-up this excellent program with a tour next year. We'll keep you posted on the date.

CAREER SERVICES COMMITTEE UPDATE

The Career Services Committee sponsored two "Lunch & Learn" training sessions at the offices of Royal Cup in Mableton, Georgia. On July 15, 2004, Kathy Roper led a session on Resume Writing Skills and on August 12, 2004, she held a training session on Interviewing Skills. Both classes provided the participants with insight on ways to enhance their opportunities in today's job market and were well attended. The committee looks forward to providing more opportunities of this type in the future.

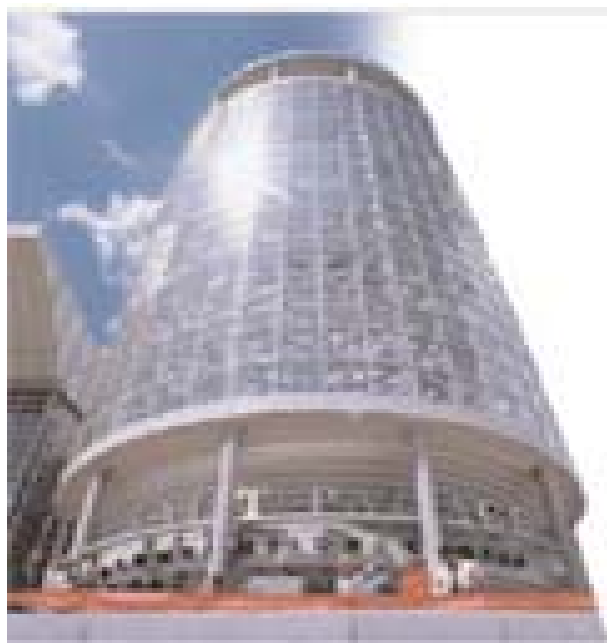

Searching for a new job can be a daunting task. The Career Services Committee can provide you with your own, free, personal career coach. Get an objective, confidential perspective on your resume, job search, interview techniques and salary negotiation strategies. Finding a job does not happen overnight. A career coach can provide you with an edge. For more information, contact Joe Carroll at 404-582-8859.

GEORGIA TECH CORNER

Georgia Tech is very fortunate to have the Atlanta Chapter supporting us! This year the Atlanta Chapter sponsored a scholarship to be awarded at World Workplace in Salt Lake City and we are proud to announce that Jun Kim, a Ph.D. student in Integrated Facility Management, is the winner of this scholarship. Jun will travel to Salt Lake City and attend World Workplace with many of the Atlanta members. Jun also won the Dupont Scholarship in 2003, awarded in Dallas.

Earlier this year the Atlanta Chapter also sponsored a local scholarship, which was awarded to IFMA Atlanta member, Jason Grimes. Thanks for all your support to the Georgia Tech masters program and congratulations to our scholarship recipients!

Save the date!

Salt Lake City 2004

Oct. 17-19, Salt Palace Convention Center

The time has come to make the decision whether or not to attend the WWP in Salt Lake City this year. Last year was my first year that I attended. Had it not been for a few friends prodding me along, I would have never gone.

I have been a member of IFMA for several years. Before going to the WWP last year I rarely attended meetings. I found it difficult to network and was very uncomfortable about attending the monthly meetings. If I didn't have anyone specific to go with then I wouldn't go at all. Well, I guess a little birdie told Tom Haslach and he sent out some troops to encourage me.

WWP Dallas was a great experience for me. Not only did I have a great time but learned more than I could have imagined and came back with many valuable resources for my company. I met many wonderful people and made new friends within the Atlanta chapter.

I strongly encourage anyone who might have any reservations about attending. Take the chance and go.

See you there!!!

Chris Vest

This year's conference coordinators for World Workplace Salt Lake City will be Lynn Moorman and Fran Rissland of A-R-T & Associates. If you are planning on attending this year's convention please contact Lynn or Fran at the following email addresses fran.rissland@artandassociates.com or lynn.moorman@artandassociates.com. They will need to know what day you are arriving – where you are staying – and if you are attending the banquet on Tuesday night. More information to follow on the website and next month's newsletter so stay tuned! Information is available now at www.worldworkplace.org/northamerica/2004.

Ignoring or misunderstanding sustainability is becoming as hazardous to your bottom line as misreading economic trends. As a tenant, locating in a green building will reduce your costs and improve workplace productivity. That is, if you know what to do, where to do it, and most importantly, how to negotiate for it. As a landlord, a green building gives you more negotiating options with tenants while creating a building that is worth significantly more money. Skeptical? Then learn the facts about green buildings in addition to a professional's view on where the real estate market is headed at this half-day seminar – the latest program in the popular "Turning Green into Gold" series.

REAL NUMBERS, NO GREENWASH, NO BULL

- Real Estate Market Forecast: What's Hot, What's Not, Is Green Here to Stay?
- Why Do It? Truths & Myths About Green Buildings
 - How & Where Green Adds Value – Inside the Numbers
 - What Owners & Tenants Really Need to Know About LEED
 - Landlord's Perspective: How Green Buildings Gain Competitive Advantage
 - Tenant's Perspective: Identifying the Right Building & Right Landlord

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Corporate real estate executives, building owners, developers, real estate brokers, facility managers, designers, property managers, and space planners.

CMMS SEMINAR REVIEW

"The Proof is in the Pudding" and "Pay me now or pay me later?" - two presentations combined to discuss what computerized maintenance management systems (CMMS) should be "telling" us with regards to work order and personnel measurements, and how they can help justify your expenditures for predictive/preventive maintenance efforts in these uncertain economic times. Gary Merrow, a 20-plus year veteran of facilities management, provided an engaging and interactive program to twenty-four facility professionals during this three-hour seminar

Gary's goal was for each student to receive an "AHA!" - a revelation of at least one new thought or idea the participants could take away from the class and apply to their organizations that day. Not an easy task given the vast amount of FM experience of the attendees (each with an average of 10 or more years of FM experience).

The first presentation - "The Proof is in the Pudding" defined maintenance terms in a simple fashion for clear understanding across different maintenance organizational languages.

Additionally:

- Operational measurements were reviewed to define what, at a minimum, should be measured.
- A labor-scheduling tool was shared along with a "Three Week Window Plan" to assist with workload and labor planning.

- Statistical analysis tools were presented - these help an organization know whether it is "in control" of its maintenance processes or not.

The building blocks of the first presentation rolled right into the second topic - "Pay me now, or pay me later?"

- Are preventive maintenance programs justifiable in economically uncertain times?
- Gary used definitions and terms from the first two hours to help answer "why" we should perform predictive and preventive maintenance and how to quantify the "why."
- Gary then, through defining Reliability Centered Maintenance (RCM) programs, delved into the crux of the program by providing a process tool to actually ascertain whether or not it is economically justifiable to perform preventive or predictive maintenance efforts.
- Gary provided participants with the ammunition to financially justify predictive / preventive maintenance efforts based on given resources combined with the analysis of the Time Value of Money (TVM) of facility systems equipment. Although the class felt as they were "drinking from a fire hose" given the amount of information provided in three hours, the overall evaluations and comments reinforced the validity of the topics presented. Oh, and all of the students said they got at least one AHA! Come to our next seminar and you too can receive an "AHA!"
